Millions of Safety Symbols

Each year more than 120,000,000 labels of the Underwriters' Laboratories are attached to various articles, devices and materials used by the American people.

Many of your housekeeping utilities—much of the equipment which serves in the homes, stores, factories, offices, schools, theatres and other public buildings—bear the well-known Symbol of Safety—the label of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.—because they have earned that right through severe test and inspection.

Manufacturers Co-operate

In co-operation with many thousands of manufacturers, the Underwriters' Laboratories scientifically establish and safeguard the fire and accident hazards of many thousands of different devices and materials.

In 1928 this work involved nearly 60,000 inspections in 63 cities, hundreds of re-examinations, and approximately 4,800 laboratory tests and examinations by the more than 400 engineers and especially trained employees.

A Public Service

Underwriters' Laboratories, incorporated in 1901, was established and is maintained by The National Board of Fire Underwriters. It is now the largest privately owned testing laboratories devoted to the conservation of life and property.

The principal testing station is in Chicago. It is an exceedingly interesting place to visit. Scientists and engineers from all over the world go there to see the work and examine the methods used. The public is always welcome.

By thus safeguarding life and property the Stock Fire Insurance companies make one of their most substantial contributions to the public welfare.

LOVE TRIANGLE OF TRENCHES ANALYZED IN STORY OF WAR

Soldiers in War Think More of Women Than of Death, Promise of Writer.

NEW YORK.—The depressed desire of soldiers and the wives they left behind them is psycho-analyzed in "Karl and Anna."

Leonhard Frank, its German author, has torn a dozen or so pages from Freud and basted it with the mud of the trenches.

The Theater Guild has balanced the ex realism of the play with an emotional interpretation of the characters which approaches sheer beauty.

And the bitterness of the production is attained mainly through the superb acting of Alice Brady, as Anna, and Otto Kruger, as Karl.

Based on the general premise that the soldier thinks more of women than of death, "Karl and Anna" thus takes issue with another psychological war play, "Journey's End."

Karl and his friend Richard are fellow German prisoners in a Russian camp. Richard is forever glorifying his wife, Anna. He tells of her beauty, her virtues, and of domestic details until Karl feels that he knows Anna as well as Richard—and better.

"Would you let me kiss Anna just once when we get back home," pleads Karl.

"Maybe I will let you kiss her once," finally agrees Richard. "But if there were ever a second time I should kill you."

Karl escapes from the prison camp and goes immediately to the wife of Richard.

It is a strange psychological scene when they meet. They have never seen each other before but something within each draws them together.

"I am Richard, your husband," whispers Karl.

"How can you say such a thing, you know you are not," protests Anna.

"You know you have been waiting for me for years and I have known you always," declares Karl.

So Karl becomes Richard to Anna and they are happy together—until the real Richard returns.

A smug, dirty Richard shuffles into the tidy, comfortable Berlin home that he has dreamed about in the muck of the trenches.

He is surprised to meet Karl entering the door, embraces him and invites him to wait for Anna and then stay for dinner.

Anna returns. She and Karl tell Richard they love each other.

Richard seizes an axe and rushes at Karl. Anna throws herself before the upraised weapon. Richard slumps down on the bed.

"You may have Anna," he mutters to Karl.

That is the outside of the triangle of the trenches. But it is the inside of the three souls involved which makes it a play to see, or rather feel. You may or may not enjoy it but you will sense the taut, neurotic surging of three war-warped hearts.

Seek Return of Empress.

VIENNA, Nov. 12.—(INS)—Efforts were revived today by monarchists in Austria to enable the return of former Empress Zita, her son Otto and other members of the house of Hapsburg who are now living in exile. The Austrian Fascists are co-operating in the attempts to have the ban of exile lifted.

ENDED COLD CAUSED BY RIDE IN NIGHT AIR

Relief Began Quickly When Doctor Advised Home Use of Pleasant Method

An entirely new method of ending colds is now proving itself quickest and most dependable in hundreds of East Liverpool homes.

Miss Eva Flinn, for example, caught a severe cold when she left her coat at home and the air became damp and chilly later in the evening. As a result, her breathing passages became badly congested, her throat was inflamed by constant coughing and her voice was so hoarse it was embarrassing to try to talk.

Acting on the advice of her doctor, then, she started taking double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Relief began quickly and that night her nose passages were less congested, the "feverish,"

"achy" feeling was gone and she was able to sleep without coughing but once or twice during the night. Next day she was able to return to work and in another day or so, the doctor reports, an examination showed that all trace of the cold was gone.

Note: See other cases being reported daily in this paper—all certified by the attending physician.

Ayer's Pectoral was hospital certified as the best of different wide-spread methods tested for head colds, coughs and chest colds because it gave the quickest, most relief—with absolute safety. It is now featured by all leading druggists.

EAST END

CROWD HEARS
REV. HINTON

Revival Services in Second Christian Church.

With a large crowd in attendance, the Rev. L. L. Hinton spoke on "The Conversion of An Army Officer," at revival services in the Second Christian church, Pennsylvania avenue, last night.

Choosing "But he was a leper," Second Kings, 5:1, for his text, the Rev. Mr. Hinton emphasized the need of obedience to God and pointed out the results of disobeying His commands.

He said in part: "Namon was very successful, as success was counted in those days, but he was not happy because he was afflicted with that awful disease-leprosy. But he was proud and when the prophet told him to dip seven times in Jordan river, which was always muddy and dirty, he refused to do so."

"If every church member today would humble himself to do as he is lead, the cause of Christianity would be assured. Pride without humility is one of the most dangerous things in the world."

The Rev. Mr. Hinton will preach tonight on "How to study the New Testament."

YULE PROGRAM IS PLANNED

Plans for the Christmas entertainment of the Pennsylvania avenue Methodist Episcopal church will be discussed at a meeting of the Sunday school board, at 7:30 o'clock tonight. J. E. Dopler, superintendent, will preside.

UNION SERVICES
ON THANKSGIVING

Rev. E. C. Brookes will be the speaker at the union Thanksgiving services for East End Protestants which will be held in the Pennsylvania avenue Methodist Episcopal church at 10 a. m. Thanksgiving day. Arrangements for the services are being made by the Rev. F. A. Dean, of the Second Presbyterian church, and the Rev. R. C. Beechley, of the Pennsylvania avenue church.

CATHOLIC CLUB
PARTY TONIGHT

Delegations from Midland and Wellsville will attend the card party to be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the East End Catholic club in the basement of St. Ann's church, Pennsylvania avenue and Palisade street. Bridge, 600 and euchre will be in play. The Misses Agnes, Mae and Catherine Weiss end, Charles Burchman and Leo Eck will be in charge of the party. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Nicholas Eck, Mrs. Harwood McKernan and Mrs. Wilfred Wood.

CHURCH MEMBERS
HONOR PASTOR

Thirty members of the Tomlinson Run church surprised the Rev. and Mrs. W. T. McCandless with a kitchen shower in the Second United Presbyterian parsonage, St. George street, last night.

The Rev. Mr. McCandless is supply pastor of the Tomlinson Run church, near Mill Creek.

Mid-week Prayer Services. Mid-week prayer services will be held in the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. The Rev. E. C. Brookes will be in charge.

Aid Society Meeting Wednesday. Mrs. T. H. Wilkinson of Mulberry street will be in charge of a business meeting of the Ladies' Aid society which will be held in the Pennsylvania avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night after prayer service.

The Doctor Approves of Cascara

When you're out of sorts because liver and bowels are not functioning properly, don't take a violent purgative that will upset your whole system and make you feel all the worse. A candy Cascara will soon have you feeling fine again—and there'll be no unpleasant after effects.

Cascara is as pleasing to the palate as candy. Their action is gentle, but thorough. They work while you sleep; cleanse the entire thirty feet of bowels in one comfortable, thorough action that leaves the system clean and sweet. They help restore normal bowel action and are not habit-forming.

Cascara is made of cascara, long recognized by the medical profession as one of the most beneficial laxatives, and one that actually strengthens the bowel muscles. Cascara is sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real licorice. That's why children love them—and grown folks find them so easy to take.

Physicians say by far the great majority of human ills are caused by constipation. If a coated tongue, dull headaches, disordered stomach or general listless feeling warn you of faulty elimination, don't take a chance on real sickness. Take a Cascara every day or two until your system seems normal. You'll be amazed at the effectiveness of this simple measure. The use of 20 million packages of Cascara's proves their worth.

Women Have Something to Say!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has ridiculed into oblivion that ancient prejudice which excluded women from a voice in council. Today, in millions of homes, the delicious flavor of LUCKY STRIKE fills the room as the family group respects the opinion of its women folk.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Dangerous "Fun"

Police and fire department officials should have the cooperation of the public in their efforts to check false alarms which within the last few days have resulted in several unnecessary runs on the part of fire fighters.

On Friday, two false alarms called the downtown as the No. 2 station firemen to an East End zone, and, as a result, necessitated a run to the Central station for the Northside equipment.

In each instance, investigation showed, schoolboys were responsible for this waste of time and energy on the part of firemen, not to mention the danger of leaving the central part of the city unprotected save for the aid available through the Northside fire-fighting force.

The seriousness of the offense certainly is not realized by the jokesters, who seem to think it is "fun" to watch expensive fire equipment, the value of which depreciates each time it makes a run, rush by as a result of a false alarm.

Both the state law and city ordinances provide a heavy penalty for persons who dispatch a false fire alarm. If apprehended, persons guilty of participating in this dangerous "fun" should be given the maximum punishment.

Rockefeller Statement

The statement of John D. Rockefeller on the business situation throughout the country was and is well worth careful reading, particularly by those who contemplate an investment in stocks.

"Believing that fundamental conditions of the country are sound and that there is nothing in the business situation to warrant the destruction of values that has taken place on the exchanges during the past week," the statement read, "my son and I have for some days been purchasing sound common stocks.

"We are continuing and will continue our purchases in substantial amounts at levels which we believe represent sound investment values."

Does the reader get our idea in again presenting this statement? If not, it is this: to bring out that while Mr. Rockefeller and his son are purchasing sound stocks in substantial amounts, which probably means purchases running into millions of dollars, they are purchasing outright, not on margins.

If there ever were two men in such a position as to justify occasional flirts in the stock market, they are this father and son. They are two of the wealthiest men on earth. They possess such great wealth that they are giving money to philanthropic enterprises in millions, tens of millions—yes, scores of millions—annually. They could lose millions and not feel it, unless it may be that the loss would perceptibly lighten the burden of disposing of their millions wisely, and yet these fine, hard-headed business men, are buying good stocks at what they believe to be sound investment values outright. With all their millions, they do not feel justified in buying on margins.

And yet the poor lambs go into Wall street, perhaps with their savings of years, where these two men of vast wealth refuse to go, to battle with the chances hopelessly against them. Nine hundred and ninety-nine times out of a thousand the result to them is financial suicide.

The Hot Dog

The wiener sandwich, affectionately dubbed "hot dog," and honored by the transfer of that phrase to the classification of exclamations of enthusiasm, has been the recipient of several sound beratings recently. Ishbel MacDonald, lovely daughter of Premier Ramsay MacDonald, struck it a cruel indirect blow when she described the home of this American appetizer extraordinary as "quaint little huts" and Dr. Bhaskar P. Hivale, of Bombay, India, said it was the ugliest thing that he saw on his visit to this country.

True Americans resent this. The home of the hot dog, known in the effete east as a Frankfurter, is not in any sense a hut, although it may resemble one. It is, to give it the very meaneast designation, an eating stand and to the very hungry and the numerous hot dog lovers it is a gastronomical palace, even in its meaneast form. But Miss MacDonald can be excused; she at least made no slur on the remarks about the merchandise sold therein.

It is Dr. Hivale that the quarrel lies. He asserted that snow was the most beautiful thing he saw here and the hot dog the ugliest. There is no doubt about the snow; it is pretty. But, look to your guard on the other point, doctor. You have trodden on the toes of a good many millions.

Its rosy skin filled almost to bursting with juicy, well-cooked, tender meat, the hot dog lies on his warm skillet and sizzles contentedly. A hungry patron points him out. He is picked up gently and laid to rest in the soft folds of a snowy white bun. Before the first bite, the covers are removed and perhaps a dash of golden mustard added to his tempting form. The first bite—ah! it is indescribable. Everyone has thrilled to it. Is that the ugliest thing in the United States, considered from an aesthetic, or any other kind of standpoint, Dr. Hivale? We defy you to produce anything of greater practical beauty than a well-done hot dog, Frankfurter, call it what you will.

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.—The future of building construction in cities is the subject of careful study among many different classes of business and professional men in these days. So rapid has been the pace of progress, so rapidly have people congregated in the great cities that problem after problem arises.

The basis of every city is and must continue to be its buildings, no matter for what purpose they are used. Already, it has become difficult to tell apart an office building and an apartment house. Factory buildings still are likely to have a somewhat different look but modern architecture has changed them to such an extent that the newer ones look more like school houses.

One point stands out. That is that nothing is showing any tendency to stop the rise into the air. Higher and higher edifices are being constructed for all manner of uses. The ever increasing pressure for ground space thrusts the population upward. A very short time ago the idea of anything in the way of a garage building more than one story in height would have been regarded as visionary. Today university buildings and even churches have adopted the skyscraper type of construction.

The most interesting recent example of progress along this line has been the erection on Riverside Drive in New York of a 23-story skyscraper for use as an art museum. It is the only such museum structure in the world but there is every reason to believe the plan will be copied. Of course, art museums are not in as great demand as office and residence buildings but the time-honored practice of spreading museums in the form of broad, low, monumental buildings over a considerable parcel of land seems to have been relegated to the discard by this development.

It is the Roerich Museum and, of itself, has a story of more than usual interest. Only eight years ago admirers of the paintings of Nicholas Roerich started a little museum to house his work in a single room. Two years later, the group acquired a small dwelling house on Riverside Drive, a part of the site of the present building. As the collection increased the number of Roerich followers gained in number until his mystic, religious pictures established a sort of cult. Societies became affiliated with the Roerich group and adjoining lots were acquired for the museum property.

The land increased in value so rapidly in the recent boom years that the group found that it was wasting its land. The skyscraper was projected and has just been dedicated. The museum itself actually occupies but half of the edifice to house the 1906 Roerich works which have been collected. The other half of the building, however, is given over wholly to art in that it is cut up into studios for artists and workshops devoted to purely artistic creation. The museum directors have the option at any time to possess themselves of any rented space for use in expanding the museum rooms.

Museum architecture is different from domestic, office, or manufacturing architecture. Buildings must be adapted to the special uses to which they are to be put. This is obvious but is a subject being studied now as never before. In Germany, for example, there is a school of architects, proving very successful, known as the functionalists. They hold that a building should be designed or remodeled to suit its function and the new structures in Berlin and other German cities show that the idea has met with a public response. Much more attention is being paid to interior arrangements than to outward design. The classic Greek designs and the flamboyant Renaissance ornamentation have been rejected. This school has extended its influence to Holland and France and is being felt to some extent in England and here. Some of the buildings look distinctly odd from the exterior but the interiors are arranged to promote the utmost convenience.

Questions and Answers.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Q. Do worms attack bananas? S. N.

A. We find no one who is an authority upon such matters who has ever seen a worm inside of a banana. Whether this is due to the tough, thick skin of a banana or because the fruit is not palatable to insects is a moot question.

Q. What is the meaning of Fidae. H. J. F.

A. F. I. D. A. C. represent the initials letters of the French words Federation Inter-Allies des Anciens Combattants, meaning Inter-Allied Federation of All Soldiers. This is an ex-service men's organization.

Q. When and where was the American Automobile association started? E. R. W.

A. It was started in 1902 in Chicago by the grouping together of local motor groups in existence at that time.

Q. In ancient times were all prisoners captured made slaves for life? C. K.

A. The fate of prisoners of war varied in different countries in ancient times. In some instances the prisoners were captured only during the period of time in which the captives were in power. Occasionally they were freed and married into families of their new homeland. Sometimes they continued to be slaves until death.

Q. How many stones were there in the Pyramid of Gizeh? I. J. G.

A. In the Great Pyramid there are 2,300,000 stones. Their average weight is two and a half tons each, but some of them weigh fifty tons each. The builders displayed an accuracy almost equal to opticians' work, but on a scale of acres instead of inches. The blocks were fitted and squared with an accuracy seldom equaled in building operations today.

Q. How do the resources of the recently merged National City and Corn Exchange banks compare with those of the Midland Bank of London? W. F.

A. With the merging of the National City and Corn Exchange banks at New York City, $2,386,000,000 resources pass under a single management, as compared with $2,303,000,000 shown in the last report of the Midland Bank of London. This gives America the largest bank in the world.

In preparing for my trip I think I've gotten enough time tables and maps to pay by railroad fare if they were sold to a rag collector. I have some new clothes, too. These black gloves are of suede, and match the new fall shoes and bags. They are for both daytime and evening wear. They make all effective contrast with the expanse of arm above. Another interesting item is short gloves, with cuffs trimmed in crystal drops which match the costume. They come in suede, or kid in off-white shades.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Many popular theatrical road players seem unable to make the grade on New York's Rialto. Yet they open here year after year, languish a week or so, and depart for "a tour of the tanks." They never lose hope of eventual metropolitan recognition.

In nearly all cities westward they have distinct followings and many of them are talented performers. Why they do not receive the Metropolitan plaudits is one of those unexplainable "hoo-doo's" that often hover over those who give their lives to the theater.

I think as I write of such entertainers as Fiske O'Hara, William Hodge, Walter Whitehead and a few others whose names escape me. They are not those trouping "hams" who walk ties in the funny papers. Their plays are by finished playwrights and are well cast.

They are far more capable than hazy looms or I'm not the local audience. They know how to move audiences to tears and laughter, but they meet, in many instances, only derision. Their first nights are sometimes an anguishing period of diffidence.

Such players are often unable to rise above the stigma of what Broadway calls "hokum," the unforgivable sin in the New York theater, although very few plays are without it. The trick is to dress "hokum" so it will pass for sophistication.

Broadway will often chuckle at situations that mist the eye in Indianapolis and Omaha. The good girl here spurs the villain with a cute crack that inspires a titter instead of a sob. What we used to know as "heart interest" becomes a pathological complex.

The child toddling down stairs to telephone heaven, virtue triumphant, and other familiar pazaars are no longer a part of the theater's illusion. They have given way to Mayfairish epigrams, divorce triangles and boudoir smut. And that's why many of us trot to the movies.

I often wonder—and I somehow feel this isn't going to be much—why most of us do not really begin

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Last summer I spent in European travel. In many ways it was a glorious vacation. Much of the territory covered was familiar ground, although some of the places I had not visited for many years. Everywhere was much to hold the interest and to give food for thought.

Some of the towns I saw were "spas," bathing places. A few of them have been famous for many decades, even for a century or more.

I met many old friends and made new acquaintances. Some of these were persons who are in the habit of going abroad every year to take "the cure."

Taking the cure means that for a period of three weeks the diet is greatly restricted, the hours in bed are long, the exercise is regulated and insisted upon, great quantities of the laxative waters are taken at regular intervals. These are the rules and their faithful observance is remarkable, indeed.

I saw men there who are captains of industry, famous lawyers, successful business men. Society women and professionals of every sort are among those who take the cure.

Do you know what impression all this made upon me? It was a renewed conviction of the conclusion I formed years ago. I venture to give it, even though nobody has asked for it.

It seems silly to me that men and women should so order their lives that "cures" are required. Why not live every day and every week an every month and every year so that spasmodic efforts at cure are unnecessary?

"Cures" are like "weeks." We have "Clean-Up Week," "Apple Week," "Fire Prevention Week." Why not clean up, eat apples and prevent fires every week and every day?

We have just as good doctors in North America, just as good waters, just as interesting territory over which to walk, and the same rules of hygiene are just as effective. It is unnecessary to cross the ocean to have every single benefit offered by the foreign spas. We have springs in the New World just as highly curative and where all the benefits, real or psychic, can be found.

But perhaps you cannot afford to travel to Europe or even to one of our springs. In that event talk with your friend, the family doctor. Go over your ailments and rectify your symptoms to him. He will outline a diet and a daily routine that will overcome your present troubles and prevent those that may be on the way.

Live each day the sort of sensible living that will keep you fit and fine. Then a "cure" will be quite unnecessary.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY.

BEREAVEMENT.

Even though you may be good friends, don't intrude on the privacy of a family in which there has been a death. At such a time the family and relatives wish to be alone.

It is well to call at the home and offer to attend to certain little things that you know should be looked after.

But it is annoying to have many other than the immediate family—around the home during bereavement.

Too often there is displayed alleged sympathy.

Frequently it springs from selfish desires.

Not infrequently it is the result of morbid curiosity.

Certain persons visit homes of affliction to be able to retail to eager listeners facts about the house or actions of members of the family.

There is a growing tendency to do away with the practice of relatives going to the cemetery.

Those who are old and feeble should not be allowed to expose themselves to weather conditions which may bring serious results.

But after all it is the heart that decides, not expediency.

People of Importance.

Are you one of the sort that at every opportunity speaks in a most intimate way of and about prominent people?

Your plan is to talk about those in a higher grade of society than those with whom you are conversing, isn't that it? You think it adds to your prestige. You think it impresses your hearers with your importance. You expect those who hear you to feel a greater degree of honor and pleasure, because they are with you.

What silly ideas!

If you are the kind that talks of Mr. and Mrs. Somebody of Importance on familiar terms, your social ambitions are such that you would not seek the company of these below in station.

The person who belongs to a certain high standing grade of society does not boast of it.

There is nothing about it of which to brag.

It is quite the regular thing for one to accept friendship to which he or she is entitled, so there is no shame.

The thing to which you are accustomed is the one which receives no particular attention from you. Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

Showers in Paris.

A great deal has been heard during the last few months about the emotions of Paris journalists. First there were exorable comments on the behavior of Mr. Snowden at The Hague. Next came Geneva; and again there was a cloud of javelins. At the moment the Paris newspapers pause in their scathing comments on Anglo-Russian relations only to express skepticism about Anglo-American relations. French opinion is like April, and it is just as well to suffer her showers patiently. But there is surely no objection to arming ourselves with an umbrella. The most useful umbrella, in this case, is the knowledge that the Paris press is in many ways ruled by different customs, governed by a different outlook to our own. The French newspapers are not newspapers; they are political pamphlets. There is an astonishingly large number of them, each serving some particular cause. Sometimes to private, and there is a scandal. First and last the Paris newspapers are organs of separate factions. In an amazingly politically-minded country editorial articles are given considerably more prominence than the news of the day. Often it is quite difficult to discover the news of the day. Thus,

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

1. Is there any harm of a girl of fourteen smoking?

2. It is proper for a girl to chew gum in public?

3. What is the proper time to return from a dance in company of a young man?

4. Is it proper to go for a ride after a party? WONDERING.

WONDERING: It is neither correct, nor is it healthy for a fourteen-year-old girl to smoke. It is not an indication of good breeding to chew gum in public. The time for your return from a dance should be set by your parents. You should abide by it.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl sixteen years of age. I am asking your advice on my love affair. I go with a boy who is a boy scout worker. I think he likes a girl who is a member of the same club I am. We are very good friends. She dates him whenever we quarrel. What should I do? I love the boy dearly and would hate to give him up, but I have too much pride to go on in this present condition. Glyn calls "It." In this excellent play, written by John V. A. Weaver and George Abbott, Miss Bow is an ambitious, peppy young sales girl in Ginsberg's department store. She falls for the handsome young floor-walker, James Hall, and their romance seems to be smoothly sailing toward the serene haven of wedlock when Clara's younger sister, Jean Arthur, decides to make a play for the much-desired Jimmie. But Jean's affections are unhappily freighted with defections, for she has squandered some of the money of the Employees' Welfare fund on the horse races and is very much in a jam at the store as a consequence. When the day of accounting arrives Jean shifts the blame for the loss of money by telling her superiors that Clara stole the funds. Meanwhile Clara has learned of her sister's foolishness and is making a strenuous effort to get the money back from the dishonest race-track bettor who had taken it. Jimmie also learns of the predicament of

Miss Frederick On American Bill

Large crowds greeted Miss Pauline Frederick's latest Warner Bros. all-talking Vitaphone picture, "Evidence," at the State theater last night, with every mark of enthusiastic appreciation.

The play is a picturization of the international stage success, "Divorce Evidence" by J. Du MacPherson. The scenario is by J. Grubb Alexander. The noteworthy all star cast includes William Courtney, Conway Tearle, Lowell Sherman, Alec B. Francis, Myrna Loy, Freddie Burke, Frederick, Madeline Seymour, Ivan Simpson, and Lionel Belmore. John Adolphi directed.

"Evidence" is a dramatic denunciation of the evils attendant upon conviction by circumstantial evidence. Lady Wimburne, lured by the profligate Major Pollock to an inn, where she is told she will meet her husband, Lord Wimburne, with whom she has quarreled—is accused by the latter of infidelity and divorced. After years of retirement she returns to London, meets her son, now a lad of seven, and is unsuccessful in gaining the forgiveness of her husband, who still believes her guilty. The return from Burma of Pollock is the climax.

Two Black Crows In Ceramic Hit

Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, made their picture debut to East Liverpool audiences at the Ceramic theater yesterday in "Why Bring That Up?" named, no doubt, after that famous expression of languidness of theirs.

Besides giving the audience a chance to find out just which was Moran and who was Mack, who by the way are called by their right names in the picture, they presented a delightful bit of entertainment.

Octavius Roy Cohen, the author of "Why Bring That Up?" is said to have written the story loosely about the actual lives of Moran and Mack. Whether he did or not, the picture has a consistent plot, which is so often lacking in first vehicles of popular stage stars.

Moran and Mack team up, start their famous "Two Black Crows" routine and start on the road to success, a girl, Evelyn Brent, comes in and separates Moran from some of his earnings, and splits up, or rather threatens to, this team who are so devoted to each other. But events transpire to the contrary.

Moran and Mack introduce parts of their former successes and add several new numbers—in the same vein. The stage sequences are elaborately screened with much realism.

"Why Bring That Up?" should have a very satisfactory showing here. Fans will not only have their curiosity satisfied as to just what these record and radio artists look and act like, but will see and hear a striking piece of entertainment.

Science Approves Bee Sting Remedy

VIENNA.—The old popular notion that bee's sting is medicine for persons suffering with rheumatism has been rehabilitated by Vienna scientists, who succeeded in preparing a synthetic bee poison, which when injected into the body, cures rheumatic ailments.

The two internal specialists, Professor A. Strasser and Dr. K. Waserbrenner of the Vienna Polytechnic

It resembles very closely the original bee poison, but it is more effective and less toxic. Hundreds of patients were treated with it up to now and the results are announced to have been excellent.

The new drug has recently been turned over for further examination to numerous Austrian and German hospitals.

"This ORANGE ROOT" is the greatest TONIC on earth, for it has restored me to HEALTH after all the specialists and other medicines failed," says Mr. Earl Miller, of 548 R. R. street, East End, East Liverpool, Ohio. Mr. Miller is very well known here, being employed at the Yellow Ware Pottery company. He continues: "I suffered dreadfully with severe stomach, liver and kidney troubles for years. I had terrible headaches and dizzy spells. My appetite was gone, and what little I did eat, seemed to disagree with me for my food formed a heavy mass in the pit of my stomach with formation of much gas in my throat and chest. I could scarcely breathe at times. The gas pressure caused palpitation of my heart and worried me almost to death. My sleep was restless and I was nervous and irritable all the time. I suffered with biliousness and constipation, due to a faulty liver which failed to carry off the poisonous bile. Black spots before my eyes and dizzy spells beset me every day. My kidneys did not work right, for I had to rise frequently at night. I would suffer awful backaches and stiffness in my joints on rising each morning. My vitality was gone. I was a nervous wreck and being unable to keep anything on my stomach: I was slowly starving and failing in health. I tried all the specialists and medicines I ever heard of, but failed to improve. ORANGE

ROOT Iron & Celery compound was recommended to me by a friend who had used it with wonderful results. I took a course of it along with a few of those golden Nuggets, and to my amazement within a few days, my appetite returned and everything I ate agreed with me, for I gained rapidly in strength. My liver functioned normally, and all signs of constipation, dizziness and kidney weakness vanished. I can go to bed now, and never have to get up once during the night. Backache and gas pains have left me entirely, and I really feel years younger since taking the treatment. My whole system seems to be vitalized and strengthened, for I do not have those tired draggy feelings any more. I look, act and feel like a different person, and heartily give all the credit to ORANGE ROOT, the greatest TONIC on earth." Follow the crowds to MATHEWS MEDICINE STORE, get a treatment of 3 bottles of the "TONIC," a box of the golden Nuggets, take them according to directions, and you will be surprised at the immediate and lasting good they will do you. Hundreds of thousands from all sections of the nation endorse and recommend them. Take them TODAY and GET WELL. Prices: TONIC $1.25, Nuggets 50c. To quickly relieve a dangerous "Hang-on" cough Night cough, Deep-seated cough, Bronchial or Asthmatic cough, take H. J. CREASOTE EMULSION Compound. It loosens the phlegm and prevents congestion. Price 50c for the large bottle at Mathews. These famous remedies may be obtained at all good drug stores in nearby towns.

MISS RUTH L. BURNS, GLENWILLARD, BECOMES BRIDE OF OTTO T. McVEY

ANNOUNCEMENT was made today of the marriage of Miss Ruth L. Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Burns, of High street, Glenwillard, Pa., to Otto T. McVey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McVey, Shadyside avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Grimm, pastor of the Riverdale Presbyterian church, Glenwillard, on Saturday, Nov. 9.

The bride was gowned in blue chiffon with cream lace, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Previous to her marriage she was employed at the G. C. Murphy store in Aliquippa, Pa.

A wedding dinner was served, covers being arranged for 16.

Mr. and Mrs. McVey will leave this week for a honeymoon in the west. They will live in Ketchikan, Alaska, where the bridegroom is employed in the United States government radio service.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McVey, Mrs. Ross Mercer and daughter, Anna Ellen, and Donald Farmer, of East Liverpool, were guests at the wedding.

Card Party in Curran Home.

Nine tables of 500 were in play last night, when Mr. and Mrs. William Curran entertained with a card party in their home in Market street. Honors were awarded Mesdames Sylvia Clark and Lois Coleman and Oscar Gilson and Patrick Densmore. Trophy for the series was presented to Mrs. Ella Willard and James Cross.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Lois Marie.

Another series of parties will open on Monday, November 18.

Club is Entertained.

When You Sew

Do your eyes tire? Does your vision blur? Close work with the needle is very fatiguing, especially when the eyes are weak and overworked, due to unusual strain.

An examination in this office will quickly reveal the true condition, and, if necessary, the proper fitting of glasses will restore normal vision and relieve this discomfort.

Adults, Too, Prefer
"No Dosing" For Colds

Millions Adopt External Remedy Made
Famous as Treatment for Children's Colds

A generation ago, when Vicks VapoRub was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. It was the custom then to give large doses of internal medicines for colds and almost every human ailment. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Equally Good for Adults.

Mothers of young children especially have been quick to appreciate this modern external way of treating colds, because there's nothing to upset the little ones' stomachs. Year after year more and more adults, too, have found Vicks equally good for their own colds.

Acts 2 Ways at Once.

Just rubbed on, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness. At the same time, the heat of the body releases medicated vapors which are breathed in, directed to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

Now "26" Million!

The ever-increasing demand for this better method of treating colds is shown in the figures of the familiar Vicks slogan. First announced when Vicks reached "17 million Jars Used Yearly"—later raised to "21 Million"—these figures, too, have been outgrown, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

BETWEEN YOU AND ME
BY JOAN.

It's time this column was doing some serious thinking on Christmas gifts. "Do your Christmas shopping early" is a dictum that should be taken seriously—especially where it concerns the choice of a pretty doll for a little girl. Oh, what an interesting "baby show" you'll see in Ogilvie's Basement Store! There's Valencia, a bewitching little French Miss looking her loveliest in a crisp yellow and orange organdie dress with hat to match; those Madame Hendren children—everyone adores them. And Bubbles—just bubbling over with life and laughter. They range in sizes from the two-week old infant to those "past the crying age." You'll find every typ in this nursery.

Fashion must be more feminine. And faces too. That's where Stern Beauty Shoppe Facials play their part. They keep the skin soft and lovely—under the skilled fingers of their expert operators, the tired lines vanish—your face glows with new youthful beauty and you really feel years younger. You will note an improvement in the texture of your skin with the first Mar-nello Facial.

"It's nice to get up in the morning but it's nicer to stay in bed"—the fellow who penned those words must have been acquainted with an Ostermoor Mattress. He goes to bed exhausted but after a few hours of sound, restful sleep he wakes up with a clear-quick-thinking mind, carries a few minutes just to appreciate his comfortable "background"—then he is ready for a big day's work. An Ostermoor is really guaranteed to give you the greatest sleep comfort you've ever experienced. Also guaranteed dust and vermin-proof. By joining the Ostermoor Mattress Club at Crook's, they will make an allowance of $5 for your old mattress, and you can pay for your new one on the club plan payment of $1.00 a week.

The matter of household goods inventory is tremendously important. It should include a record of all home-furnishings, linen, silver, china, books, jewelry—everything in the house. It should be kept up-to-date to inform one how much insurance he should carry on his goods. After we've completed the list, let's not stop 'till we've taken it to The Lee C. Cooper Agency and had everything insured against loss by fire. So many more fire-losses in winter than any other season. The point is—protect your self with insurance.

Just the other day we heard of a young man (can't mention his name) who had ordered a Frigid-aire from The Crooked City Ice & Products Co. as a Christmas gift to his mother. Now, that's our idea of a grand gift and one that any woman would greatly appreciate. Already you see that people are busy in anticipation of giving someone a Merry Christmas—so we pass this on as a timely hint to husbands.—Adv.

How do you choose?

EVERY time you make a purchase you make a choice. Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing. But the fact remains that in accepting one brand of goods you are always rejecting others; and the satisfaction you get from what you buy depends on the knowledge of quality and values that guides your selection.

How do you know which bed-sheets, or which roofing material, or which radio will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class. But there is a way to find out which brand fits your needs.

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

Choosing isn't just "guessing" when you follow the guidance of the advertisements.

You can depend on advertised goods. It pays to read the advertisements.

500 ATTEND THREE ARMISTICE DAY BANQUETS HERE

PRIEST LAUDS WAR MOTHERS, PRAISES POILU

Veterans Hear Rev. Father Gracey and Ben Bennett. BIGOTRY SCORED Elks Entertain 128 Children From Two Homes.

Tribute to those who wore the uniform during the World war, especially to the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice, was paid by 500 persons in three Armistice day celebrations in East Liverpool last night. About 200 guests attended the dinner-dance celebration sponsored by the Elks lodge, No. 128, at the Fairmount home near Alliance and 55 from the McCullough-Jefferson county home at Yellow Creek attended the Elks' affair. The children, accompanied by the superintendents, matrons and home employees, arrived here early in the afternoon and after attending the service, were taken on an automobile tour. A talk by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle, Mayor Benndum and others followed the dinner served by Ladies of the Elks. Children from the two homes followed a program in the ball room following the dinner and returned to the homes at 9:30 o'clock. Members of the lodge and their friends were entertained with a dance after the children left.

Plea for Tolerance. The Rev. Father E. J. Gracey, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Catholic church, Wellsville, and a World War veteran, spoke on "Reminiscences of the World War," at the veterans' banquet. He praised the Gold Star mothers as those who had made the greatest sacrifice and pointed to the love of the French people for America, as shown at the American Legion convention in Paris two years ago. Attorney Ben L. Bennett, subject was "Religion of the Four Leaf Clover." He voiced a plea for tolerance, scored bigotry and flayed the "knocker." He termed "faith, justice, love and good luck," the four leaves. Attorney Blaine H. Cochran was toastmaster. Piano duets were given by Mrs. R. W. Johnson and Miss Lillian Bradford. Vocal solos were offered by Earl Reese, baritone, with Miss Eleanor Swancy, as accompanist and Mrs. Hazel Griffith Moore, contralto, with Mrs. T. C. Flick as accompanist. Violin solos were played by Dr. H. C. Mallinson, with Mrs. Flick as accompanist. A reading, "To Have a Cigarette," by Homer Campbell, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was an added feature.

"Now that the company refuses to go along with the kilnmen on such an unjustifiable stand, plant No. 8, which now employs 150 workers, has suspended all operations indefinitely." Wells' Statement. Wells issued the following statement: "When the Homer Laughlin China company contemplated the installation of the new machinery one of the officials of the company called upon President Duffy and Secretary McGivillray and explained the new machine, in order to get the Brotherhood's reaction to the use of women in place of men in the placing of ware in saggars. "Officials of the company were given the impression that the Brotherhood would go along with them and believed that it had been given the assurance that the Brotherhood could obtain the agreement of the kilnmen's local to this plan. "Before the company was ready to put the system into operation about 10 days ago it developed that the Brotherhood officials had not attempted to obtain the kilnmen's permission to the use of women and insisted that they had not intended that company officials should obtain from the interview the impression that they could assure a favorable attitude on the part of the kilnmen. "Company Recedes to Avert Strike. "Another fact - The kilnmen assumed such a hostile attitude that the Brotherhood executive board felt constrained to go along with them so far that the company received a flat ultimatum from them (the Brotherhood) in case we did start the employment of women the executive board would order an immediate walkout of all members working in all Laughlin shops. "In spite of the fact that the company had invested more than $100,000 in this particular machine with the sole idea that it should

FROMM JURY TAKES OATH

Seven Men, Five Women to Hear Bribery Trial.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12.—(INS)—A jury of seven men and five women was selected and impaneled here today in the bribery trial of Charles A. Fromm, Stark county commissioner. Common Pleas Judge Irving Carpenter, assigned here from Norwalk, O., who is trying the case, gave the jury final instructions, before the opening arguments were begun. Fromm is accused of having demanded a "cut" of $200 before he would approve a bill submitted by the Colson company for supplies which were furnished for the new Molly Stark sanitarium. George Keefe, manager, and John Kirk, salesman, of the Colson company, are to be the principal state's witnesses. It was on the basis of their stories that Fromm was indicted. It is expected the state will complete its case before night.

Motorist Is Fined, Committed to Jail

LISBON, O., Nov. 12.—Charles Beck was fined $100 and costs and committed to the county jail by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle today, following his conviction upon a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated. Beck was arrested by Sheriff William J. Barlow.

It should be understood that the company is putting women at this work which would not be as hard work as some jobs which they are already performing in the factory; it would be in no way violating the present agreement between the Brotherhood and the United States Pottery's association, and that in threatening to order a general walkout for the above reasons, the Brotherhood would be very definitely violating their agreement.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

By W. S. Cousins, I. N. S. Financial Editor. NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—A deluge of selling orders at the opening of the market today carried prices of all the active stocks to a new low level, but sharp rallies took place in U. S. Steel, American Can and other pivotal stocks before the end of the first hour, more than restoring the early losses. Under turnover of 1,556,900 shares in the first half-hour, the ticker fell behind 21 minutes. Prompt reports from the floor of the stock exchange enabled outside traders to keep in touch with actual trading conditions, and the early rally was flashed out when quotations on the ticker were at their lowest. Yesterday's "mysterious" selling, at a time when most of the "weak spots" were supposedly eliminated, shattered the confidence of thousands of traders throughout the country, and buying orders were conspicuously absent in the first period. Short covering and powerful banking support by the big six helped to turn the tide in favor of a higher price range while the rank and file of outside speculators were still groping in the dark. After touching a new low price for the year at 157 1/4, U. S. Steel rallied sharply to 165 1/2. Westinghouse, which started the day at 116, rallied 9 points to 125 and Johns Manville recovered from 95 to 103. New York Central, operating at 167 3/4, down 3 1/4, registered a sharp come-back to 172.

M'MANUS TRIAL IS POSTPONED UNTIL MONDAY

State Witness in Rothstein Murder is III. COUNSEL AGREE "Titanic" Thompson's Absence Causes Delay.

By James L. Kilgallen. NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(INS)—The trial of George McManus, charged with the murder of Arnold Rothstein, nationally-known gambling king, was postponed today until next Monday. Assistant District Attorney George M. Brothman, announced shortly after court opened that Alvin Thomas, better known to the gambling fraternity as "Titanic" Thompson, was seriously ill in a Milwaukee hospital. "Titanic" is one of the state's principal witnesses. Brothman said that the state's case would be jeopardized without the availability of Thomas. Lawyers for both sides went into conference in the chambers of Judge Charles C. Nott of general sessions. When they emerged Judge Nott said trial was postponed until next Monday because counsel on opposing sides had agreed on the delay. Judge Nott said defendant's counsel James D. C. Murray, had recognized the state would have all its forces and had graciously agreed to the adjournment. McManus, smiling affably, entered the courtroom, accompanied by his lawyer, James D. C. Murray. He wore a dark blue business suit, a white handkerchief cascading from his breast pocket. He nodded to the battery of newspaper men as he pushed his way through to the defense counsel table.

Naval Cut Pledged

(Continued from Page One) for Japan, France and Italy according to their needs. The figures were 5 each for Great Britain and the United States, 3 for Japan and 1.6 for the rival Mediterranean power of France and Italy. It was with this basis in mind that the president so boldly and so positively threw out the challenge that naval reduction cannot go too low for the United States. It remains now to be seen how far Franco-British and Anglo-Japanese, and Franco-Italian differences and suspicions can be allayed, and how far they will be willing to go. Mr. Hoover's speech doesn't leave much to be said for the American attitude. Collaterally with this pronouncement of American naval policy, President Hoover made a proposal which he said he wanted the world to ponder and consider. It was simply that in the event of another war, food ships be put in the same class as hospital ships and immunized from attack. "The time has come," he said, "when we should remove starvation of women and children from the weapons of warfare." Speaks With Conviction. Mr. Hoover spoke with deep conviction on this point, a conviction born of his wartime experiences in trying to feed the helpless civilian populations of Europe with German submarines sinking food ships destined for allied countries, and British cruisers seizing foodstuffs ticketed for the neutral Scandinavian countries but really destined for Germany. During the late war, the allies tried to starve out Germany through the maintenance of a naval blockade, and Germany tried to starve out England through the ruthless submarine campaign against merchant shipping. Even hospital ships were not immune in this savage warfare. This matter of making foodships immune from attack together with the broader question of "freedom of the seas," has a direct bearing on the question of naval reduction. Britain's excuse for a large naval establishment has always been that England cannot feed herself, that she is dependent upon shipping for her very bread, and for that reason a large navy is vital to the life of the empire. Remove that element of doubt, Mr. Hoover thinks, and there is automatically removed Britain's chief reason for "controlling the seas."

"Iron Woman" Held

(Continued from Page One) tinned to insist she "accidentally" beat 4-year-old Dorothy Rogers to death and that 2-year-old Timothy the child's brother, died from falling downstairs. At one point in the intensive cross-examination, detectives thought they had broken through the ice of the woman. "There was another baby I had charge of in 1926—a 3-year-old baby," she shouted. "What did you do with it? What did you do with it?" "I used that baby to get money from men," she answered. "What did you do with it? What did you do with it?" But the "iron woman" regained the old grip on herself and would go no further. Detective Sergeant Louis Shaw said today that an investigation had brought him information that Miss Parks had a small child in Atlantic City two years ago. She used the child for purposes of blackmail, Shaw said.

Woman Faces Another Grilling

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(INS)—Two New York detectives today were enroute to Camden, N. J., to question Gladys Mae Parks, alleged baby killer, concerning her possible knowledge of 4-year-old Billy Gaffney, who disappeared from his Brooklyn home in 1927. Billy was playing in the hallway with a lad about his own age when he vanished mysteriously. His playmate said "the bogey man" had taken Billy up on the roof. Woman Faces Another Grilling. Brooklyn today recalls that several days after the disappearance of the Gaffney boy, a witness had said that he saw the boy with a woman on a ferry going to New Jersey. Billy was the son of a city fireman. Germany's unemployed now number 235,000 more than a year ago. New telephones are being installed in London at the rate of 1,100 a week.

GIRL, 18, LEAPS TO HER DEATH FROM AIRPLANE

Ruth Rockwell Gets Wish for Newspaper Space. LIFE DISCORD Pays $5, Goes Aloft After Writing Farewell Note.

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Nov. 12.—(INS)—Only one of the many questions asked by Ruth Rockwell, 18-year-old Philadelphia girl, in a note left in the cabin of an airplane from which she leaped to her death near here, was answered today. That one was: "I am wondering if the newspapers will decide to devote any space to me?" All of the other problems which beset the pretty, darkhaired girl, and drove her to sensational suicide remained, for the rest of the world at least, unanswered. She wondered what she would think of as she whirled to death through space, whether she would find anything in death, and if so whether it would be the "sweet music" she sought when all her life was discord.

Daughter of Business Man

Inquiries among relatives of the girl, daughter of D. W. Rockwell, Philadelphia business man, failed to elicit any reason for her act save that she had always had a morbid curiosity regarding suicide. E. F. Booth, commercial pilot from whose plane the girl dropped to her death, has told his story to the authorities. She came to Valley Stream yesterday afternoon, paid five dollars for a ticket and asked to be taken aloft as high as possible. Booth thought she was looking for a thrill, and perhaps she was. In the notes she left behind she said that life was "futile," and that it was wrong to go on existing. Leaps 2,000 Feet. "She seemed to be in perfectly good spirits, and I didn't suspect anything when she asked for altitude," said Booth after describing how the girl had rouged her lips and adjusted her hat before entering the plane. "She asked me whether the doors locked from the inside, but I thought this was merely a novice's cautious question," he continued. "When we reached 1,500 feet, she tapped on my window and asked me to go higher. At 2,000 feet I felt a sudden rush of air, and looking around saw one of the doors swinging open. I could see the girl's body hurtling to the earth below."

Crushed by the terrible impact, the girl's body landed on a stretch of roadway near the flying field. Miss Rockwell had been staying with her brother, Donald Rockwell, at his home in Yonkers. He said his sister had been born in Springfield, Ill., and was a granddaughter of the late Senator H. P. Shumway of that state.

CASON EXPLAINS CHECK FOR FINE

"Doc" Cason, Avondale street barber, who was fined $105 by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley, last Friday, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated today issued the following statement relative to his arrest: "I issued a check for $37 and had but $71 in the bank. The first check was not delivered to Mrs. Cason as the paper announced. I was released on Friday." Mrs. Cason, police said, gave Patrolman Herman Roth $27 when she was notified that her husband did not have sufficient funds in the bank to cover the first check. Cason then issued a second check for $60, which, with the $19 which he carried at the time of his arrest, made up the $100 fine and costs.

HURT IN FALL, FOUND IN ROAD

Edward O'Rock, 22, Taken to City Hospital.

Edward O'Rock, 22, employee of the Potters' Supply Company, is in the City Hospital today, suffering from injuries, which police say he sustained when he fell from a stone wall near his home, 1047 Pennsylvania avenue, last night. O'Rock was found in the River road near Dalton's crossing at 9 o'clock by Mrs. Joseph Davis, motorist, of St. Clair avenue. She and her son took him to the hospital. O'Rock told hospital attaches that he was struck by a hit-and-run driver, but his mother told police that he had been hurt in a fall. His condition is not believed to be serious. Louis Shaw, Daisy alley, is also in the hospital suffering from an injury to his left hip, sustained in a fall from his bunk in the city jail. He was taken to the hospital in the police patrol.

S. W. CRAWFORD IS SPEAKER AT DINNER-DANCE

Sons of St. George Entertain 200 Guests.

SOLOS GIVEN

St. Stephen's Church Circle Women Serve.

Two hundred guests attended the Armistice day dinner-dance held by the Sons of St. George in St. Stephen's Episcopal parish house, West Fourth street, last night. Addresses were delivered by Attorney S. W. Crawford and Captain W. E. Buzz, of New York city, representing the Church Army, while vocal solos were rendered by Miss Mildred Weaver, Oliver F. Johnson and Samuel Mountford. Attorney W. H. Vodrey was toastmaster.

Cites Sacrifices

Commending the Sons of St. George, Crawford urged his hearers to preserve the memory of the sacrifices made by the American army "over there." "The purpose of this," he said, "is to refresh our memories 'lest we forget.' Many are questioning what the war was all about. "The sacrifice was terrible. There are many who still suffer the pangs of grief for a loved one who left in the bloom of youth and failed to return. War To End War. "And there are thousands of ex-soldiers who to this day live the awful agony of death in life. But we are sure of two points: First, if the outcome of the World War had been reversed, the rule of militarism would now hold full sway over all nations; second, if the great sacrifices made during the four-year struggle shall be the means of preventing war in the future, then it shall not have been offered in vain." Dinner was served by the women of Circle No. 1 of St. Stephen's church.

Refuse Zep Insurance

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—(INS)—A new obstacle arose to hinder the projected flight of the Graf Zeppelin to the polar regions, with the refusal of German insurance companies to insure the airship because of the hazards of the journey. "There would be no better way for President Hoover to begin his law enforcement campaign than by intervening for these men who have served thirteen years for a bombing outrage they did not commit," Nye said in the article.

Is Your Whole Appearance Ruined By Ugly Leg Veins?

Of course it is because nothing detracts so much from a woman's beauty, as big, blue Varicose Veins bulging out in her stockings. Is there anything you can do to get rid of this distressing condition?—You just bet there is—go to Carnahan Drug Co., or any drugstore and get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil, a simple, economical yet such a wonderfully efficient home treatment which quickly stops the pain and soreness and reduces the most enlarged veins back to normal in so short a time you can scarcely believe it. Untreated Varicose Veins have a tendency to grow worse until only operations can relieve them—so why not start right in to-day and banish not only any operation but your ugly veins as well—without penetrating and antiseptic treatment of Moone's Emerald Oil will do it for you.—Adv.

W. Smith, president, represented the Men's Work association of the First Presbyterian church at the annual convention of western Pennsylvania and northern West Virginian Presbyterian men in the Fort Pitt hotel, Pittsburgh, yesterday. The sessions opened in the morning and closed with a dinner at 6:30 o'clock in the evening.

The theme was "Men and the Church." Among the speakers were: the Rev. Gill Robb Wilson, Trenton, N. J., national chaplain of the American Legion during 1928; Reid S. Dickson, Philadelphia, assistant secretary of the board of publication, and Rev. Robert E. Speer, New York City, senior secretary of the board of Foreign Missions.

Charles H. McDonald, New York, assistant general director of the department of men's work and field promotion, gave the introductory talk, "Why We Are Here?" at the morning session. George E. Campbell, Pittsburgh, president of the Elder's association of the Pittsburgh Presbytery, presided at the dinner.

PUPILS GIVEN HALF HOLIDAY

Midland Schools Dismissed at Noon Monday.

MIDLAND, Pa., Nov. 12.—Half-holiday, which came as a surprise, was granted Midland public school pupils and teachers yesterday afternoon by Superintendent H. V. Herlinger in observance of Armistice day. Classes were dismissed at 1:30 o'clock.

About 25 members of the Lincoln high school football team, accompanied by Coach W. P. Lomond and Faculty Manager W. A. Wineski, witnessed the Geneva-Waynesburg football battle which was staged at Beaver Falls. Two Boy Scout troops paid homage to the soldiers who lost their lives in the World war at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning when they laid a wreath on the cenotaph erected in the Lincoln park. Appropriate program was given in the Lincoln high auditorium at 9 o'clock under the direction of Ralph Jewell, history teacher.

Wounded Man Flees In Auto; Found in Hospital.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—(INS)—William S. Ragan, well paid superintendent of a manufacturing company, lies in a hospital today suffering with two bullet wounds after having admitted that he was the man who tried to hold up the state bank at Fisher, Ill., his home town.

Armed with a revolver, the bandit entered the bank last Friday. His attempted coup was interrupted when City Marshal C. R. Potts passed the building. Potts saw the bandit's gun and opened fire, hitting him twice in the thigh.

The robber fled in his automobile but later was traced to the hospital.

Police, checking up his history, found that Ragan was exceptionally successful as a well paid executive of the Linde Air Products company. According to police, he led

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

Thrilling Story of Romance of Modern Girl

By Hazel Livingston

What Has Gone Before
Nancy Hollenbeck, young, vibrant and beautiful, becomes cynical towards love when she gives up Mat Tully at her mother's request because he is poor. She encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy married man who, enamored of Nancy, wishes to divorce his wife. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with a handsome ranger, Roger Decatur. Leaving her chaperones, the rich Porters, Nancy, after a violent but brief courtship, secretly marries Roger. Doubts assail her as she spends long, lonely days in his rough mountain cabin. She is startled by the telephone bell. It is Mrs. McKimmons, a neighboring ranger's wife. Nancy is troubled as she pictures herself growing to be like her. But she is happy when Roger is with her. When he tries to leave on a long trip, Jack Beamer, the only man not to go, is able to bear the rough shack with him, she packs her belongings and returns home. Her mother notices her hand. Nancy is startled but it is only the roughened skin her mother has seen. At the rich Neal's costume ball, Nancy looks for Roger. Then she sees a man rushing toward her.

"The moon belongs to everyone. The best things in life are free!"

The dancers were singing. Even Louise. Even Louise's partner, whose toe, he was quite sure, was broken. For you can't make a scene at a party, even if your sister is making a fool of herself, or your tenderest toe has been trod on.

"He has his nerve," May Belle giggled, whispering to with Gil Neal. "Mother took particular pains not to invite him."

"Oh that's Jack Beamer all over," Gil said easily. "He goes where ever he wants to, invited or not. Rather a compliment that he came. Means he heard it was going to be a good party."

"Good party nothing!" May Belle returned with a touch of her mother's tartness. "He heard Nancy Hollenbeck was going to be there, that's all. Didn't you see him jump over the dahlia bed and climb in the French window when he saw her? He gives me a pain!"

Gil Neal, happy to have May Belle in his arms, happy that everyone, even the bias Beamer seemed to be having a good time, just laughed. "There are lots of fellows here who aren't invited, it would be a frost if a nod didn't come!"

"Well—" May Belle admitted grudgingly. It WAS nice to be able to say Jack Beamer came, even if mother WOULD have a fit. What really upset her was Nancy. You could never depend on Nancy Hollenbeck to keep her place. You asked her partly because you had to, and partly because she was good at keeping people amused. And just when you were feeling really grateful to her for brightening up a dull corner and making things move, she'd like as not, spoil everything by stealing the best man and hogging the spotlight.

Of course Gil is the best man! May Belle reassured herself loyally. But just the same, Jack Beamer is the most showy, and I don't think it's very good taste for her to make herself conspicuous like that at a party!

"Look at them!" she complained aloud. "Doing a solo dance—hogging the whole floor . . . nerve I call it!"

Gil followed her indignant gaze. Jack Beamer, the only man not in costume, had stolen a red silk sash from someone and tied it around his waist. Nancy had a pair of castles, her high bubbling laugh rose above the music which had changed to something Spanish and lilting; the saxophone was still. Somebody shook a tambourine. Frank Hawthorn picked up a melody on his piano.

"Look, they're doing the fandango!"

The other "ancients" had stopped dancing. Everyone was crowding to watch the couple in the middle of the floor. Jack Beamer threw back his head and laughed. He made an absurdly graceful bow to Nancy. Her bright bronze head almost touched the floor, she courted so low. The castles clicked, they were dancing. Fandango? Beamer didn't know, he was making it up as he went along, but it didn't matter. Nancy's high-arched feet in the black satin slippers kept unfailing step with his. Her hooped skirts, patterned with soft crimson, golden hearted roses, shadowed with tier after tier of cobwebby black lace, swayed as she swung herself wildly into the rhythm. Her cheeks were carmine. One narrow black satin shoulder strap slipped from a creamy shoulder. The rhinestones on her throat and wrists flashed in the bright, white light.

Old Gilbert Neal, Sr., stumping through the ballroom with his wife on his arm, stopped and stared. "My word!" he said.

Mrs. Neal fumbled for her lorgnette and focused it on the breathless, laughing girl. "A real beauty, eh Myra?"

Mrs. Neal lowered her lorgnette and shook her head. "Yes, and a real tragedy I'm afraid, my dear. She's old Senator Peeble's granddaughter. Kitty, the daughter, married somebody or other—Hollenbeck I think the name is . . . dear, dear . . ."

"But a girl like that, Myra! Temperament, style, fire! She'll go far without any help."

"Too far. Did you see Jack Beamer's eyes? Well, it's none of my business. I'm glad all my girls were boys."

The dance was over. There was a roar of applause, and then somebody started a stampede for the buffet.

Jack picked up a velvet wrap someone had left on a chair, and put it over Nancy's bare shoulders. "Where are these new gown-dollars they've been bleating about?"

They slipped out of the open French window by which he had entered an hour ago.

Mat Tully was late. First he had decided not to come, costume parties make a man feel like such a fool. But at the last minute he thought he might as well, and went down to Goldstein's the costumers, for something to wear.

A Venetian costume? the sales-lady repeated helpfully. "I'm afraid—I'm really afraid that about everything is gone. There's a big society affair tonight and so many gentlemen . . . how would you like a nice bull fighter's outfit?"

In the end they fitted him out in dark green tights and a leather jumper slashed with orange and yellow. It was quite a nice costume and Mat rather fancied himself in it, though he had a sneaking suspicion it was intended for Robin Hood, or Peter Pan. Still nobody is fussy about details like that, he consoled himself, driving fast to make up for lost time.

Nancy Hollenbeck was back from her long vacation he had heard, of course she'd be there. He mused about that, bumping along over the highway, in his rattly old car. He had been awfully in love with her last spring. Maybe he was still . . .

She wasn't on the floor when he got there. Half of the crowd had drifted down to the river where the lanterns on the little boats bobbed like fireflies over the water. Some of the more convivial spirits had joined hands around the punch bowl and were singing, "I'm a son of a son of a —" with great feeling and not too much harmony.

"C'mon, Mat, you've got a beautiful voice!" someone invited, but who can join a chorus of mauldin songsters, cold-sober and fresh from a long, hard ride?

He was turning away, a little disconsolately, when a familiar voice cried. Why Mat Tully, where did YOU come from?

It was the oldest Hollenbeck girl, coming toward him with both hands outstretched, welcoming him as if she were really glad to see him, as if it mattered whether he came or not.

"Hello Lou!" He had never called her that before. Her color deepened. For a moment she looked almost as lovely as her pretty sister. "C'e it's good to see you? Where's Nancy?"

"Out on the river with the others. Want to go look for her?" Lou tried to answer gayly, nonchalantly, as Nancy would. But she didn't manage it very well. She heard her own voice, too eager, too tense. The old self-consciousness came rushing back, her throat felt tight. "I have this dance with someone—" She looked around brightly, nervously . . . how COULD she have given herself away like that? Rushing up to him like a chattering school girl! Let him go look for Nancy! What did she care? Helen Roffinger was out there waiting for him too, looking almost handsome in her crimson velvet . . . why keep her waiting?

Mat smiled. A peculiar expression flitted swiftly across his dark, mobile features.

"You have this dance with me. But we're not going to dance it. We're going to forage for something to eat instead. Nancy won't miss us," he added, laughing.

With Mat, looking like Robin Hood at a party, by her side, Louise led the way to the dining room where salads and funny heart-shaped sandwiches were laid out on long tables. She walked on air. Her gilt slippers—home gilded—seemed not to touch the ground at all.

"Nancy won't miss us!" Mat had said.

OHIO JURIST DIES AT 74

Judge Rogers, Dean in Columbus, Succumbs.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—(INS)—Judge Charles M. Rogers, 74, dean of the Franklin county common pleas judges, who suffered a stroke of apoplexy while delivering a charge to a jury on October 30, is dead here today.

Rogers, who had occupied a bench in the common pleas court for 23 years, is a graduate of Otterbein college. He was admitted to the bar in 1890 and eight years later was appointed referee in bankruptcy for Franklin county. He was regarded as an authority on bankruptcy laws.

The death of the venerable jurist, the second within his family in as many days. His sister-in-law Mrs. L. Barbes Young, of Los Angeles, died Sunday at the Rogers home as the result of a fractured hip which she received about a month ago in Los Angeles.

City Attorney Charles A. Leach is considered as the most likely appointee to fill the vacant common pleas court bench.

At the moment that he said it, Nancy Hollenbeck, in a canoe with Jack Beamer, would have given anything she possessed to see them. To see anybody. To get away. To be safe, on shore.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed. External treatments seldom banish Piles.

Nor does cutting remove the cause. The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby. The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonard, M. D., a specialist set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can all ways be found at Mathews Original Cut Rate, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—Adv.

ASK MARKING OF HIGHWAY

Road Boosters Would Eliminate Curve Dangers.

State highway engineers will be asked to mark appropriately the curves in the Lincoln highway between the Pennsylvania-West Virginia line, to minimize chances for accident, as a result of action taken at a meeting of the Lincoln Highway Beautification association here last night.

White lines on the curves, the association believes, will prove an aid to motorists. Specimens of plant life along the highway were exhibited and described by C. C. McDonald. John E. Newell presided.

Local Officer Lauds This Herbal Discovery

To Really Appreciate What It Does in Constipation and Stomach Disorders, It Must Be Tried

"Owa-Ton-Na certainly is a fine medicine," says John Cole, well-known police officer of Wellsville, Ohio. He says:

"For two years I have been suffering with constipation and most of the disorders which this condition brings on.

"I was troubled with frequent attacks of indigestion, gas and bloating spells. My appetite was very poor. At times I would get very dizzy and have frequent headaches. My system must have been full of poisons as at times my joints would ache and everyone knows how uncomfortable that is.

"I must say that Owa-Ton-Na certainly made a big change in my condition and to appreciate what it really does, one must try it and it is certainly worth that to anyone who suffers with the condition for which it is recommended.

"My appetite has improved 100% and I don't have to be afraid now that when I eat, I am going to have those sour, bloating spells of indigestion. Owa-Ton-Na just seems to cleanse the system from top to bottom."

Owa-Ton-Na is a non-alcoholic herbal preparation for kidney, liver and stomach and intestinal disorders.

CALLS HOOVER "DEAR QUAKER"

LONDON, Nov. 12. — (INS)—President Hoover, in the opinion of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, is a "dear old Quaker." The British premier in a labor address here revealed he was sorely tempted to call Mr. Hoover by this name during their peace talks at the president's Virginia camp.

I'm Going to Have This Beautiful Zenith For Christmas—

I've Joined the Radio Club At the Smith & Phillips Music Co.

"Here's the plan: You go in and choose the radio that you like the best — it doesn't have to be a Zenith, for they have the most complete line of radios in East Liverpool, but John and I have been over to Mary's and heard their Zenith and we both think it is the most beautiful instrument we have ever listened to. You know, we have been talking about having a radio for this Christmas but just couldn't figure out how we could spend so much money at one time, now Smith & Phillips have made the plan so easy and we're going to have one for I joined the Club Saturday. They are giving an extra Christmas gift to everyone who joins the club and say, mine sure is beautiful. There is no Red Tape to this club, you only have to pay a small amount down and then a little each week or pay day and another nice thing about it is that if you want the radio delivered before Christmas they will install it ready to play any time you want it. Won't John be surprised, I've never told him a thing about it. Here's a picture of it, handsome, isn't it?"

POTTER, SALEM TEAMS MAY CLASH NEXT YEAR

Gridiron Meeting Possible

Decker Lists Cage Tilts for Coming Year.

Prospects of a resumption of athletic relations with Salem high school, north county rivals of the Blue and White, were seen today as Faculty Manager J. M. Decker announced his 1929-30 basketball bookings. The schedule includes a game between the girls' teams of the two schools but behind it all are negotiations which possibly will see the Potters and the Quakers in action on the gridiron when next fall rolls around.

According to Manager Decker, Salem high, as late as yesterday, seemed concerning football possibilities next year.

The Quakers are asking for the Nov. 22 date, and it so happens that date on the East Liverpool schedule is available.

Decker hesitates only because of the fact that if Salem and East Palestine are scheduled here next year, the locals would face a strenuous road schedule the following season, 1931, when they must return games.

However, a session of the athletic board of control will be called, he said, to discuss the proposal.

In all, 21 games have been carded to date on the Blue and White court card.

The schedule follows:

Dec. 13—Bethany high here.

East Liverpool girls will play the same night at Salem.

Dec. 14—Open.

Dec. 20—At Coshocton.

Dec. 21—Alumni (boys and girls).

Jan. 3—Harding high of Warren (boys and girls) here.

Jan. 4—Coshocton here.

Jan. 10—At Youngstown Rayen.

Jan. 11—Wellsville (boys and girls) here.

Jan. 17—At Bellaire (boys and girls).

Jan. 18—At Marietta.

Jan. 24—At Steubenville (boys and girls).

Jan. 25—Martins Ferry (boys and girls) here.

Jan. 31—New Philadelphia varsity and reserves here.

Feb. 1—At Martins Ferry (boys and girls).

Feb. 7—At Canton McKinley, varsity and reserves.

Feb. 8—Steubenville (boys and girls) here.

Feb. 14—At New Philadelphia (varsity and reserves).

Feb. 15—Dover here.

Feb. 21—Bellaire (boys and girls) here.

Feb. 22—At Wellsville (boys and girls).

Feb. 28—East Palestine (boys and girls) here.

March 1—Campbell Memorial high here.

We Cannot All Be Gridiron Heroes

COLUMBUS, Mo., Nov. 12.—Unsung and frequently unrecognized, the life of the college cross-country runner is just one weary mile after another.

Between halves of the Missouri-Nbraska game here, a small band of cross-country runners representing the two schools came loping around the gridiron after concluding their five mile sprint. A few of the 22,000 spectators looked to see which school's runners were winning but most of the spectators failed to see the weary runners.

"What are those fellows doing down there in track pants on a chilly day like this," remarked one spectator, whose comment was similar to that of other spectators at nearly any football game. "Must be some new kind of stunt they're pulling off between halves; they think up so many crazy things to do at these games."

Tigers Down Wellsville Eleven, 12-0

F. Hall Scores Twice; Third Game Probable.

The East Liverpool Tigers defeated the Wellsville Ex-Highs yesterday afternoon at Nicholson Field, Wellsville, 12 to 0.

The two elevens are now on even terms, the Wellsville crew having captured the first game, 13-6. As a result, it is possible a third game will be arranged.

The Tigers hereafter will be known as the Golden Star Dairies. The locals scored their first touchdown in the third period when F. Hall intercepted a pass on the 50 yard line and raced the remaining distance to the goal line.

In the final quarter Hall broke loose again, circling left end for a touchdown.

The Golden Stars are scheduled to play a practice game with the high school reserves Thursday night.

LITTLE INTEREST IN KENYON TILT

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—For the first time since the opening of the football season, little interest was manifested in the coming Saturday game of the Ohio State university.

Kenyon college will send its eleven here for a contest, which should prove a one-sided affair. Armistice day prevented actual scrimmage for the Buckeyes yesterday.

The Bucks should score at will against the Gambier outfit. Grady, a scrappy young halfback and former local high school star, played his first Conference game last Saturday against the powerful Northwestern gridiron machine. The youth's actions are being watched closely by Coach Sam Willaman, who is hoping Grady will develop into a good open-field runner.

GAMBIER, O., Nov. 12.—Kenyon college's gridiron squad lost no time in getting down to practice in preparation for its coming game with Ohio State university. Mistakes made in Saturday's game with Mt. Union were pointed out by Coach Kutler yesterday.

Yale Plans Series of Hard Workouts

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Yale today will engage in the first of three scrimmages in preparation for the Saturday's important clash with Princeton. The scrimmages will be devoted to strengthening the defense. Foot Ellis seems fully recovered from his injuries and will be used in the workout today.

Princeton At Work For Tilt With Eli

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—With all the squad save Trix Bennett in good shape, Princeton today begins its drive in preparation for the Yale tilt. Several new plays were added to the Tiger attack in yesterday's light drill.

Grady Only Buckeye On Casual Squad

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—Bob Grady, halfback, who did heavy ball carrying duty against Northwestern Saturday, today is the only casualty on the Buckeye squad. Coach Willaman plans to rest the squad this week in order to be in the best shape for Illinois one week hence.

ATHLETIC UNIT MEETS TONIGHT

The East Liverpool Athletic association will convene tonight at 8 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A.

A number of important business matters will be discussed by the association and, consequently, officers of the organization request all members to turn out.

Stobbs Leads Team Against His Own W.-J.

Pilots Wittenberg in Tilt With Presidents.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—A chapter from the future—Time: Next Saturday morning. Place: Washington, Pa.

Scene: Washington and Jefferson university campus. Students and alumni milling about waiting for the afternoon's football game. Flags, bunting and other colorful decorations.

Character: Dad, the returning alumnus, and his son, a frosh, with a third figure to be introduced later.

Dad, pointing: "See that man over there?"

Son: "Sure dad, why?"

Dad: "That is William T. Stobbs."

Son: "Not the famous 'Bill' Stobbs?"

Dad, becoming fired with enthusiasm: "Righto, son! He's the fellow who beat Yale. Let's see, it must have been 14 or 15 years ago when W. & J. trounced old Eli 17 to 0. Stobbs was on the receiving end of 17 successful passes that day."

Son: "Unload some more. This will be great stove-league gossip to pass along."

Dad: "He made the late Walter Camp's all-American teams in 1916 and 1917, and he was captain of W. & J. in both his junior and senior years."

Son: "He must have been pretty hot."

Dad, solemnly: "He was."

Son: "Go on!"

Dad: "He was the greatest lit. He made four letters in football and that many more in baseball. In 1921 he bunted with a Detroit professional eleven and piloted that team to 12 wins out of 17 games. They bunched against such teams as the Chicago Bears, New York Giants, Canton Bulldogs and other big time teams." Dad pauses for a breath. He had been speaking rapidly.

Son: "Continue! Don't stop."

Dad: "Stobbs did his bit in the war, too. He was a lieutenant in the air corps. In an alumni get-together meeting a couple of years ago, it was told that he coached Linsley Institute preparatory school and turned out a championship football team there in 1919, matching his squad against the strong gridlers of Steubenville, Wheeling, Parkersburg, Bellaire and Martins Ferry. Then he went to Wheeling in 1922 and coached at the high school there that year and in 1924 in 1925 he returned to Linsley and again piloted that team to the Ohio Valley football championship. His basketball team there won 61 out of 71 games, going undefeated for a stretch of 23 games. That's as far as I can go. I have lost track of him for the last couple of years."

Son: "Some memory, Dad."

Dad: "Want to meet him?"

Son: "And how!" Father and son link their arms together and accost Stobbs.

Stobbs: "Yes."

Dad: "I've been telling my son about you. Here, son, meet one of the greatest football players W. & J. ever turned out."

Son: "This is great."

Dad: "Stuffy how all the old grads trickle back to see the Alma Mater. We're playing some little Ohio outfit by the name of Wittenberg, aren't we?"

Stobbs: "Yes. It has a strong team."

Dad: "W. & J. ought to win."

Son: "Yea, we'll beat those Ohioans."

Stobbs: "I hope not."

Dad, outraged: "What!"

Son, outraged: "What!"

Stobbs: "That's the truth. I hope W. & J. doesn't win. You see, I'm head coach at Wittenberg now."

Dad: "Oh!"

Son: "Oh!"

Curtain falls.

Wolverines Lose Star For Season

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 12.—Michigan was to plunge back into heavy drill for Minnesota today. Hudson, who cracked two ribs in his touchdown dive against Harvard's line Saturday, is out for the season, it is feared.

Dartmouth Scrubs Use Cornell Plays

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 12.—All players who participated in the Brown game having had a day of rest, Dartmouth was ready today to start work for the coming struggle with Cornell. Cornell plays will be used by the scrubs today in a dummy scrimmage.

Page Reorganizes Indiana Varsity

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 12.—Further reorganization of Indiana's grid team was to get under way today as Coach Pat Page sought a more satisfactory combination for Northwestern.

Edwards Loses to Herman

Drops Close Decision In Washington Ring.

Freddy Edwards, district welter-weight champion, encountered the first defeat of his career last night at Washington, Pa., when he lost to Jackie Herman, brilliant Wheeling boxer, on points in the semi-final to the Mickey Solomon-Mickey Feder bout.

A scintillating finish in the last round after a pretty even fight gave Herman the decision although not a few of the ringsiders expressed the opinion that Edwards should have had the first four rounds.

Nevertheless, the bout looks like a good rematch. Ted Yaarsz, the Monacan, won decisively from Johnny Brown of Pittsburgh, in six rounds at Butler, Pa.

SINGER STOPS BOSTON VESTERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Members of the lightweight division had another worry today in the person of Al Singer, sensational young Bronxite, who last night made his debut into that class by knocking out Johnny Sheppard, rugged Boston veteran, at the St. Nicholas arena.

Sheppard suffered his first knockout in ten years of fighting in the seventh round when referee Johnny Marto stopped the bout to save Sheppard from further punishment. Singer showed his best form in the fifth and sixth round when he had the Boston boy all but out.

Ned Tarleton, English featherweight, scored his third victory in American rings when he won the decision over Pinky Silverberg, Harlem.

Just think how he would look out over a center's neck pulling in a play or on the end of a pass.

Coach Godfrey is expecting Bill Diefel of Bexley high, to graduate to Big Ten caliber, and that's shooting a big gun. He's out for a guard, as is Don Hultman, from Grand Rapids, Mich., with a weight of 295 pounds and handled like it were 188.

Next come the centers of which Godfrey has a wealth of good material which includes Ehrensberger of Columbus, Jim Nasman, who tips the beams at 175 pounds and who is a buddy of "Wes" Fessler, of Youngstown. And it is not possible to forget that 240 pounds and that's a guard, as is Don Hultman, from Grand Rapids, Mich., with a weight of 295 pounds and handled like it were 188.

The residences of the candidates for the backfield positions, reminding one of the old days in school when one had to know at least 10 states right off.

The logical thing to do would be to start with the quarterback but there is one name which should be brought to attention. The name is Carleton Welch, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and his brother is none other than Gibby Welch, an All-American at Pitt in 1927.

There is also in conjunction with Welch, Neil McKay, of Hollywood, Calif., later of Pittsburgh. He is said to be an all state man in California, and to add to these two young men is Jack Greenberg of Detroit, Mich., a good prospect.

In "Duke" Welever, of Toledo, Godfrey has a first rate fullback, who weighs 187, and hits the line.

Two boys from Ohio, Don Carlidge, Toledo, and Dave Chizek, Cleveland, at 160 pounds and 165 pounds, respectively, are in the list.

And if those boys and others come back next year, well, just watch Ohio State.

Teke Bough, On Ohio State Frosh Squad, Awaits Chance For Job On Buck Varsity

Another Scarlet Tackle From Pottery City Being Developed at State.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—If the members of the freshman squad now earning their laurels in football can be held intact until the pigskin call next season, a team enhanced by seeming replicas of Harley and Stinchcombs will probably grace Tony Acquilla's velvety turf in 1930.

Of course, eligibility is the big stumbling block in the path of these would-be varsity players as the "straw of hope" is that Coach Ernie Godfrey's plans work out to perfection. If they do, what a sophomore squad there will be to work with.

Coach Godfrey has 250 candidates for football out now. If they can be held in readiness until the next season rolls around, a mighty fine group of pigskin-toters can be extracted from one quarter of a thousand prospects, besides additions to the forward wall.

One of the frosh footballers who is in the spotlight is Bill Carroll, thought by many to be one of the best high school backs since those memorable days of "Chick" Harley, at East High, Columbus, Carroll is from North, Columbus, as is Lew Hinchman. So is Tubby Ehrensberger. This trio carried a large part of North's laurels on their bearded shoulders. Bill Diefel and Bob Wood, of Bexley high, are good line prospects.

Teke Bough, a buddy of Dick Larkins, of East Liverpool high, who came here from Illinois, is out for a tackle berth, and in a big way. His poundage is 205. There is an ex-captain of Dayton Silvers, one Carl Woxam, who is six feet and weighs 195. What a pair! And also for these tackle berths there is on hand a lot of gridlers who should be mentioned. There is one Bob Van Blaricon, of Salem, who weighs 181 and last but not least is Ed Lakin, a little chap just 6 feet and 5 inches from the ground up.

Just think how he would look out over a center's neck pulling in a play or on the end of a pass.

Capital Fighter Is Dead

Johnny O'Keefe Stricken in Dressing Room.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—The fighting heart of Johnny O'Keefe is still forever today.

O'Keefe, who was 25 years of age, was one of Columbus' most popular pugilists. He had retired from the ring six months ago because of ill health.

But the lure of the ring was too great. He decided to stage a comeback and again started training.

O'Keefe seemed to be in fine fettle, according to Harry Sully, the boxer's manager. A match was arranged for Friday night, but when the bell rings for the first round, O'Keefe won't be there.

He was stricken in his dressing room in the Central Athletic club gymnasium as he finished a workout. He died in Mt. Carmel hospital without regaining consciousness.

O'Keefe started his fistic career as an amateur in 1920. He was signed as a professional a year later and reached the peak of his success shortly before he retired from the ring.

"He was a fine lad," Sully declared, "and a gentleman in the ring."

400 At MacDonald P. T. A. Observance

Program Marks 50th Anniversary of Cornerstone Laying; Committees Are Named.

WELLSVILLE, O., Nov. 12.—More than 400 people attended the fiftieth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone at MacDonald building which was observed last night by members of the MacDonald Parent-Teacher association in the Ninth street school building. Mrs. J. R. McCombs presided.

Mrs. Naomi Forner, who was a member of the teaching staff when the school opened, gave a number of reminiscences of those days. She contrasted conditions at that period with those of today and cited the many advantages now recurring to present day pupils. She referred to such representative citizens of the early days of the schools as the Rev. William Fulton, Rockford, Ill.; Dr. Walter Denslow, Pittsburgh, and Dr. Bert Connell, Cleveland.

W. K. MacDonald, member of the board of education, spoke on recollections of his father, the late Prof. J. L. MacDonald, for whom the school was named. His father, he said, received his first educational training near Muskingum. Later he entered Muskingum college. He also held teaching places at New Concord and Seneca before coming to Wellsville in 1870.

Mrs. Mary McKim, a member of the first class to graduate, spoke interestingly of school conditions as existing then. She also cited the many changes over the period of years all resulting in material benefit to students of the present.

S. E. Daw, superintendent of schools, said that "People are not self made but are products of the past, and no one could estimate the influence that had been exerted by the school which permeates throughout the community."

The following committees were announced for the year: Program—Mrs. J. F. McColloch, Mrs. B. S. Purinton, Miss Martha Rex, Miss Mary Helen Stewart, Miss Shepherd and Don Hoover. Finance—Mrs. F. A. Musser, Mrs. Edward Kretser, Mrs. Elmer Savage, Miss Ruth Ketter, Miss Lillian Davis and Miss Lois Culp. Membership—Mrs. George Frazier, Mrs. Jesse Tarr, Mrs. Dwight McLean, Mrs. Blanche McClelland, Mrs. Elmer Ward, Mrs. Carl Shope, Miss Nell McCombs, Miss Ruth Dales, Miss Maxine Herron, Miss Mabel Boyd, Miss Ila Orr and Miss Bilsing. Publicity—Miss Elsie Berg and Miss Ruth Irwin. Chorister—Miss Phyllis Boyd. Pianist—Mrs. Fred Eckfeld.

SCHOOL PLANS DISPLAY OF ART

Art exhibit and program under auspices of the McKinley school will be held Thursday and Friday nights at 208 Lisbon street. Tableaux, folk dances, fortune telling and other events will feature the program. Fancywork booth will be operated.

D. OF A. TO HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

Banquet Will be Given Dec. 9 at Hotel.

Plans for the annual banquet of the Daughters of the American Revolution which will be held in the Riverview hotel, Third and Main streets, on Monday, December 9, were completed at a meeting last night in the home of Mrs. Sanford E. Fisher, Lincoln highway, East Liverpool, with Mrs. George Moore and Mrs. W. H. Gass as associate hostesses.

Mrs. Wallace Chetwynd, chaplain, was in charge of the devotional service, and the reading of the 23rd Psalm. The response to roll call was "An American Citizen, What I Am Thankful For."

Mrs. Mary Ward, chairman of the committee in charge of packing a box to be sent next month to the immigrants at Ellis Island, gave a talk on the needs of these people, and what other chapters are doing for them.

Thanksgiving greeting issued by the president general, Mrs. Lowell F. Fobart, was read by Mrs. Mary Hanley.

The program included a talk by Moss Carrie Southwick, on "What It Means to be a Daughter of the American Revolution." Miss Margaret Browning read a group of poems relating to Armistice day. Mrs. Robert Burlingame had a paper on "The First New England Sabbath," while Miss Esther Frances Swift had as her topic "Our National Thanksgiving."

Members listened, via radio on President Herbert Hoover's Armistice day address broadcast from Washington, D. C.

Guests of the evening were Mrs. William Taylor and Miss Esther Swift.

NICKEL RITES ARE HELD HERE

WORLD PEACE PASTOR'S PLEA

Rev. Father E. J. Gracey Dalton Post Speaker.

The Rev. Father E. J. Gracey, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church and former national chaplain of the "40 and 8," was the principal speaker last night at the Armistice day celebration under the auspices of Dalton post, No. 347, in Lee's chapel, Fourteenth street.

The address, which contained a strong plea for world peace, was heard by a crowd that taxed the capacity of the church. Talks were also given by S. C. Brown and Richard Carter. Music was in charge of the Bogen orchestra. Reading was featured by Mrs. Myrtle Lewis, saxophone selections by Matthew Clark and vocal numbers by the Log Cabin Harmony Four.

William Spires, post adjutant, presided. The address of welcome was delivered by the Rev. M. L. Gordon, pastor of Lee's chapel.

Personals

Mrs. G. L. Boring of Cleveland spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Byron Householder, 18th street. Mrs. Householder's son, Lawrence, a student in the Medical school at Western Reserve university, Cleveland, also spent the week-end here.

Mrs. Alfred Frail and children, Earl and Clara, Mrs. Mary Frail and Miss Helen McComb visited Sunday in Minerva. They were accompanied home by the former's mother, Mrs. Ollie Hutchinson.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Broom and daughter, Margaret, of Mechanics town, visited Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Adda Frail.

PONTOON BLAST KILLS WORKER

BREMEN, Germany.—One worker was killed and numerous persons injured when an iron pontoon in Bremen harbor exploded with such terrific force that all windows in more than half-a-mile distance were broken, and heavy pieces of metal were scattered all around the harbor territory. The pontoon had been painted anew internally and had been closed again before the paint was dry. Gases developed by the fresh paint are said to have caused the explosion.

PAROLED

Mrs. Low Pantages, convicted of manslaughter for the death of Juro Rokumoto, a Japanese, in an automobile accident was granted ten years' probation by Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy, Los Angeles.
